

Tricked Out News

RavenNuke - Banner ad in forum header

bobby - Thu May 06, 2010 3:17 pm

Post subject: Banner ad in forum header

First thing, create a new banner position in you Advertising ACP. For this How To, we will assume the new banner position is 2. If it is different, adjust ads(2) with your number.
Open modules/Forums/includes/page_header.php and find:

```
if (!$is_inline_review & $mod_name != "Private Messages") { title("$sitename: $mod_name");
}
```

after add:

```
if ($banners) {
    OpenTable();
    echo ads(2);
    CloseTable();
}
```

sortilege2021 - Tue Dec 14, 2010 1:45 pm

Post subject:

great!

SemperAye - Thu Feb 14, 2013 12:53 pm

Post subject:

I changed it to this:

```
} else {
$mod_name = $row['custom_title'];
}
if (!$is_inline_review & $mod_name != "Private Messages") {
if($banners){
OpenTable();
//
```

But now my forums are not showing up at all lol, i've tried disabling the add and they are still not showing up, I think its an error with the code.

also tried this:

```
} else {
$mod_name = $row['custom_title'];
}
if (!$is_inline_review & $mod_name != "Private Messages") {
if ($banners) {
```

```
OpenTable();
//
// gzip_compression
```

SemperAye - Thu Feb 14, 2013 1:57 pm

Post subject:

Ya I messed it up..pls come save me bobby!

neralex - Thu Feb 14, 2013 2:07 pm

Post subject:

WTF what are you doing... lol

Please describe exactly what you want to change and use the BBcodes, so we can see what is now part of code and what not.

SemperAye - Thu Feb 14, 2013 2:31 pm

Post subject:

LOL!

I have no idea...now my little gray ad boxes are not showing up at all anymore on any page. I was trying to get an ad banner in my forums by following the instructions above but failed hard. what i pasted was what was inside of my file manager in cpanel i dont know how to change it to bb code.

*update gray boxes showing after killing my add blocker HAHA but still cant figure out the forum ads would it be easier to put the ad in the forum footer? that would be better?

bobby - Thu Feb 14, 2013 2:52 pm

Post subject:

Change your code back to the original, and after that bit of code, just add:

```
echo ads(2);
```

or whatever add position you have it set to.

SemperAye - Thu Feb 14, 2013 2:58 pm

Post subject:

```
Change your code back to the original, and after that bit of code, just add:
echo ads(2);
or whatever add position you have it set to.
```

WHOOOT!!! SOLVED!! THANK YOU!!

SemperAye - Thu Feb 14, 2013 3:05 pm

Post subject:

Hey guys,

How do I make a space between the AD and the forum menu buttons? If it was HTML I would just put like a  under that code or something 😊 As you can tell its def not center. Changing add dimensions doesn't do anything but shrink the entire space.

https://lh4.googleusercontent.com/-3TI_U0H9xyg/UR1LaHWehrI/AAAAAAAAAMo/js0s92L7Q78/s973/Capture.PNG

bobby - Thu Feb 14, 2013 3:47 pm

Post subject:

```
echo '';
```

SemperAye - Thu Feb 14, 2013 3:56 pm

Post subject:

```
echo '';
```

echo '
'; did the job 😊 u da man

SemperAye - Fri Feb 15, 2013 9:08 am

Post subject:

Where can I put echo '

'
in the main header to increase the size of that zone as well?

bobby - Fri Feb 15, 2013 9:37 am

Post subject:

In your themes theme.php under the header function.

SemperAye - Fri Feb 15, 2013 10:08 am

Post subject:

it worked thanx again bobby, but this time i had to delete a line to make room..interesting..learning alot here 😊
